Forward by Clay Douglas

I published the Free American for over ten years and broadcast on short wave, worldwide, for the same period of time. Shortly after I came to Arizona to start Thunder Riders Magazine, a serious accident hospitalized me for four months and closed down my operations for a time. My shortcoming was my loner lifestyle and independent nature. I had no organization to fall back on.

The Free American was on the newsstands and bookstores, like Barnes and Nobel and Borders around the US. My radio show went around the world on short wave. The need for such a magazine and radio show has never been greater. The plan for globalization is in place and the move to suspend our Constitution and its power over the government is well underway. The same forces are at work that brought down Mother Russia and led to the formation of the USSR. NAFTA, CAFTA, FTAA, and the CFR call to merge the USA with Canada and Mexico to form the “North American Community”, seals the deal.

Most news sources deal with small pieces of the big picture and cater to the government spin control. We need a broad view of what is really happening because what happened in Russia that led to the deaths of fifty million people under our ”ally”, Uncle Joe Stalin, and what is happening in Palestine and Iraq, could happen here in time. Warnings of the Bird Flu as a pandemic have already been issued.

Because of the kind of pressure I have been subjected to, the demonization of anyone or any group that might resist, it is hard to find people who will take a stand by standing up and speaking out. That gives the opponents of liberty and freedom the power of “Consensus” to enact laws, rules and regulations without opposition. It has already begun with the imprisonment of any who dissent. It really doesn't matter if you oppose taxation, the Iraqi war, globalization, depleted uranium or the six million figure used to extort money for a foreign power, you will be dragged off to the gulags just as Aleksandr I. Solzhenitsyn, Ezra Pound, Ernst Zundel, kidnapped and spirited away to Germany and charged with denying the holocaust and now David Irving, noted English historian has suffered the same fate. Jose Padilla, an American citizen who was arrested when getting off an airliner after returning from a trip abroad, has now been held for three years without trial, on the suspicion that he might do something like blow up a “dirty bomb” even though no trace of radioactivity has been found. The Supreme Court just issued the order to bring him out of the military stockade and give him a civilian trial.

If we don't speak up now and come together and work together, what happened in Russia to Aleksandr I. Solzhenitsyn, will happen to us here.

OFFERING

Personal History

Clayton Douglas is a professional writer with a publishing history that goes back twenty-five years. He has a business-oriented background that goes back even further. He has operated distribution companies and has sold and marketed products for companies from Seattle to Miami, New York to LA.

Clay has ridden motorcycles his whole life and written for Easyriders, V-Twin, Motorcycle Industry and two of his own. Thunder Riders Magazine has been operating in that field in Arizona for the last three years. New Times referred to Thunder Riders as the “Premier motorcyclist magazine in Phoenix.”

The crown jewel in his publishing career however, was the Free American, a name that has become synonymous with Clayton R. Douglas. As the owner of a successful chemical business in Miami, Clay divided his time between fishing off the Gulf stream on his custom Hatteras Sport fisherman, the “Sea Deuced”, writing his new series of “Trevor Cameron, Terrorist Hunter” adventure novels, “One Bloody Alabaster Eye” and “Deadly Flashes of Silver”, and riding his motorcycle, gaining all the while, the experience and the ability to communicate his adventures and knowledge that has made him well known all over America.

An earlier attempt to sell one of his publications through a business brokerage house was turned down by the broker who said that his publication had so much of Clay Douglas in it, that no buyer would be able to make it work on their own. The broker was partially correct but successful media companies are those who have stumbled upon characters and personalities who have built those companies through their acting, singing and writing or just through the force of their personalities. The powers behind the studios and broadcasting companies are constantly hoping to find the right personalities to market.

Clay Douglas is that kind of personality.

But you won't see him in the movies or on ABC or NBC. You won't read his articles in the New York Post, or see his take on the news on CNN. However, many commanding officers in our armed services, police captains, intelligence operatives, Congressmen, Senators, governors and even Presidents have read his articles, relied on his intelligence, listened to his words over the airwaves for better than ten years. A veteran broadcaster has said, “Clay Douglas is one of the best interviewers I have ever had on my stations!”

Tall, well built, handsome with an IQ well into the genius level, Clay seems to be a natural leader. Being personable, having a quick wit and a sharp mind, he is able to captivate a large audience on stage as he lectures, on radio where people around the world rose early to hear his take on the news, and any of his videos will glue a couple to their couch for an evening.

You may be asking yourself, if the above description is accurate, why isn't he in Hollywood raking in the big bucks instead of working alone in his studio? Major media companies pay big bucks for personalities with less talent. Yet, for years, he has been single handedly publishing magazine, after magazine, doing the jobs of ten people? Why hasn't a network scooped this guy up?

For the same reason the U.S. Army turned down his application for OCS. Sorry son, someone with your IQ will question orders. They were right! Clay Douglas is the ultimate rebel. “I will never follow illegal or unconstitutional orders.” He was honorably discharged from the Army after almost dying of Spinal Meningitis and refusing a pension the chaplain offered him. “I don't want anything from the army or the government!”

Self trained. Self educated. Self disciplined. Possessing a will of iron. No fear. Speaks his mind. Follows no orders. Goes where he wants, when he wants, is rarely late and works with that same kind of intensity. It is these qualities that make him the nightmare of control freaks around the world and earned him the respect of equally strong men who have come back from war to mount the steel horses that are the symbol of the freedom they were willing to fight for. It is these qualities that make thousands of copies of Thunder Riders and the Free American fly off the shelves around the country. His travels across this country provide him with the material that will make his novels and films fly from the shelves of bookstores and video shops. Like Louis Lamour, whose novels had that element of realism that so held your attention, when he describes a scene or location, he has been there.

Clay's first series is patterned after the immensely popular, John D. MacDonald Travis McGee novels. When MacDonald's attorneys won attorneys commented, “You write just like John D. MacDonald!”

“ I read everything he ever wrote!” Clay replied.

It is this independent spirit, his research and experience, and the way he meets every challenge or obstacle that has kept all of his companies and projects on track and profitable as long as he had the back up systems and employees to handle the office and company details.

Before getting further into the details, you need to be aware of the current conditions he has been operating under.

On May 20th, 2004, Mr. Douglas was seriously injured when a woman T-Boned him, rolling his bike over him three times, striking his head on a curb and putting him in the hospital for four months, three of which he was fed a potentially deadly cocktail of drugs like Halcyon and Haldol which can induce mental distress, to keep him unconscious. The doctors gave his family little hope that he would live or survive with his full mental capacity.

His sons kept Thunder Riders going but they were not qualified to publish the Free American. Most of the mail order business was lost and the radio show went off the air.

The doctors had no idea of the sort of man Clay Douglas was. He not only survived a severe head injury and broken ribs, he came out of the hospital to a demoralized and angry family. His wife of twenty-five years left him three weeks after he got out of the hospital, after a failed attempt to gain guardianship of him and his affairs. The court investigator told him he was the most well recovered head injury patient she had ever interviewed. His sons went back to college. Left alone, Mr. Douglas still managed to sell advertising, do the majority of the writing and photography, do the layout of the magazine, cover runs and events and restarted his radio show on the internet. He traveled to California to do two lectures as well.

He filed for and got a divorce. His credit was damaged when his wife failed to pay all of the bills.

He rolled all of his affairs products, properties and ventures, into CRD Publishing, removing his wife completely from his affairs.

PROPOSAL

He has two established magazines. He has two completed novels in one series, ready to print, and two in another fiction series needing only a rewrite and editing. His short stories and articles have been published in many national magazines He has three films, already selling as VHS and DVDs, and dozens of videos of lectures and guests. He has established two well-known websites, and has hundreds of interviews ready to be uploaded to them. He has a stable of writers and a library of books and a stock of healthful products that have sold successfully in the Free American and promoted over his radio show. This is a product line that, with only 10,000 issues printed, and brought in sales of $30,000 plus per month for the entire time the Free American was published.

Advertising sales currently, with only one magazine and one man, generates about $15,000 per issue on 6 issues a year. These should be published every month. With the range of events and story material, this is no problem for a properly staffed and funded company. There are dozens of conferences that would love to have Clay come and speak. That opens up booth space to generate fresh subscriptions and more product sales.

Careful attention to the websites will dramatically increase the revenue from on site sales. Acquiring a selection of new products and books create more material for magazines and radio shows. Clay's policy of taking on new books from the publisher has proved to be a successful and smart way of doing business. "We can't buy everybody's book. So we work it this way. You give us the first case or two of your book, we bring the author on the radio show so Clay can interview him. We record the show and put up links to it. We advertise it in the magazines for free and we become one of your distributors. The radio shows will be archived on the website and may be downloaded by participating radio stations for late night programming until his popularity propels him into primetime with Limbaugh, Savage, Imus, Stern and Reagan.

Small links on popular sites can often be traded or purchased inexpensively. Changes in policy by major distributors have forced many small publishers off the newsstand where 50% sale is considered good. Thunder Riders will continue to be given away but the area in which it will be available will expand beyond Arizona. Once the expansion is complete, we will limit availability and start charging a subscription fee. You need to understand that Arizona is considered Biker Heaven. It has beautiful scenery, good roads, no helmet law, liberal gun laws, beautiful women and more and better bike builders than California. Fox network expressed an interest in a reality series based on the content of Thunder Riders. A film crew traveling around the state filming interviews with builders, events and clubs, would generate considerable interest among the networks and can be offered for sale as Thunder Rider Videos in the magazine and marketed through all the bike shops and biker bars around Arizona as well as through the video stores nationwide along with the politically oriented videos produced under the Free American label.

He has ownership of property in New Mexico from which he ran the Free American for ten years. His plans there include a franchise-able motel and RV park featuring park model trailers that look like cabins and catering to the motorcycle riders who travel the country going to the events.. The development would be called Liberty Village and first appeared in Free American three years ago: "All of the charm of the nineteenth century with all the convenience of the twenty first".

The shortage of operating cash and experience personnel forced him to cut back the publication of Thunder Riders to every other month. This gave him the overhead of two months and only the income from one. It is amazing that he was able to survive and keep up the stamina and conviction to continue on while coping with the loss of the love of his life, the destruction of his radio show and the loss of the Free American. Working with a small staff on the Free American was the norm for him, but the added burden of obtaining articles, photos and advertising for a territory as vast as Arizona shortened his temper even more and may have created an extra hardship on friends and employees. The number one priority would be the finding of an honest, competent, well-trained staff.

All of the functions of the office would be taken over by the new owners with the exception of selection and creation of articles and subject material. An office and small staff will be needed. A phone room with experienced sales people will be set up for advertising sales. One would concentrate on local motorcycle-oriented businesses, another for nationwide companies. Others would be assigned to distribute the videos and books. One person would be needed to handle the mail order business and shipping. Two or three ad design and layout artists would also be needed in the main office. Distribution would be expanded into California and Colorado and eventually, as local reps are found, expanded nationally. Sales efforts for Mr. Douglas' videos and books will be handled out of the sales office. Mr. Douglas would require a personal assistant who would handle booking events, speaking engagements, booking guests for his radio show and syndicating the show.

$10,000.00 is needed by Clay immediately to pay off all existing debts of CRD and for essentials like rent, electric and vehicle payments. It will take another $15,000.00 (approx) to print the next edition of Thunder Riders, which will feature the new Free American as the back half, printed upside down, introducing the biker community to this superb but controversial magazine. The combined edition will be printed in extra quantities and sent around the country to all former subscribers (4000) and outlets and reestablish the product line. It will also be sent to shops around California, Las Vegas and Colorado. The estimated revenue from past subscribers (if only 50% re-upped) would be about $80,000.00.

Time is of the essence here to maintain the support of local businesses that are expecting the magazine to get back to a regular monthly schedule.

CRD Publishing (Clayton) can supply a few computers and printers and a phone system to handle the growth of the company for the first year. We have two vehicles; a 2005 Chrysler 300 M for around town use; a 2003 F250 four door Ford Pickup with a 16 foot enclosed motorcycle trailer that will be used for delivering the magazines and for outings or runs for Thunder Riders. Mr. Douglas has a 1999 Harley Road King that he rides to events. This rig will hold thousands of dollars of merchandise and has a pop up camper that will allow our staff to sleep in comfort on runs and road trips. Vehicle costs are approximately $2000.00 per month for all three. Mr. Douglas will have use of the vehicles when he is in town and for road trips, events or speaking engagements.

Currently, many magazine distributors are requiring that smaller publishers upgrade to slick bond paper throughout. This is a move by giant companies to force many small publishers out of business. If we wish to put the magazine into the bookstores, arrangements would need to be made for printing in Mexico or Canada. Both the Free American and Thunder Riders started by putting the magazines out for free in key locations, Truck Stops and Gun Shows in the former and Bike shops and biker bars in the latter. Once a person has had a chance to read the magazine, they have a form to fill out to subscribe. There will be a large cross over from one magazine to the other. The Free American has four thousand former subscribers who only need to be mailed a copy of the premier issue and are eager to see it come back out.

Bear in mind, that the Free American has always been controversial and explores the conspiracy version of history. Mr. Douglas' support of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights is the primary guidelines of The Free American. His coverage of events around the world and in America is more balanced than the mainstream. For example, this is the rough draft of the next publisher's column of the premier issue included here, Mr. Douglas' articles have always given one a view of the other side. He has allowed the Palestinian's views to be presented which drew cries of Anti-Semitism from the Jewish sector. This same sector uses the term Racism to cover honest Americans concerns over immigration or crime in black areas. They object to the use of the term Christmas while lighting menorahs.

He believes the American people deserve to hear both sides of a story if the story is being told without hate or rancor. While he discusses sensitive subjects as race, religion, world government, the conspiracy view of history, UFOs, and psychics, he does so without bias, hate or anger. He has never advocated violence, will not support war and truly believes in freedom and liberty.

Alternative media was effective during the sixties and seventies and it is needed even more today. Mr. Douglas has come up with secondary plans using the internet to it fullest potential to distribute the magazines and his radio shows in much the same way he has done in Arizona, to allow the individuals rather than the corporations to profit and become a part of a larger whole without sacrificing the individuality or their independence

He plans to recruit computer-savvy patriotic people and arrange for them to be able to print our publications, in small batches, with blank spots to allow them to sell and insert their own local advertising into these issues. They will then be responsible for the dissemination and distribution in their area. This will work for both publications.

Here is a sample of Clay Douglas' editorial genius.

Publisher's Corner – First Restored Edition
By Clayton R. Douglas

Since I watched the Federal Government kill the children in Waco to save them from a child molester, along with the adults in a well established religious community near Waco, Texas, called the Branch Davidians, I felt there was something seriously wrong with the government AND the way the media was reporting on it.

When President Bush made the announcement a few years later that we were going to give our allegiance to the New World Order, the hair stood up on the back of my neck. I devoted my life to understanding what was happening to our country. I learned that in almost every area of our daily life, we were being hammered by sophisticated mind control techniques that made Soviet and German propaganda pale in comparison. We are being programmed right now to accept and support a third world war. The first two were established the mechanisms for one world government, the world government body called the UN. We were programmed into believing it was time for the New World Order when it actually is the two thousand years old order. To offset the accuracy of my conclusions, I was labeled "a Conspiracy Theorist".

The revelation that NSA was being used by Bush to spy on Americans is only the tip of the iceberg, but its coverage in the mainstream media and the outrage it created in the average American household has opened the door to the kind of information the Free American has been disseminating over the past twelve years.

Vietnam was sold to us as being a war on Communism but every plank on Marx' Communist manifesto has been implemented in the USA for as long as it has existed in the Soviet Union. The attacks on Joe McCarthy for exposing the Communists, who were supposedly our enemies, were little different from the attacks on me. The concentration camps exist, well documented and photographed. For now they stand complete and empty. Their construction was called Civilian Labor Camps. in the Pentagon budget a few years back.

My video called the “True Face of FEMA” features film of the very first Homeland Security Briefing of Law Enforcement in Sandia Labs on Kirkland Air Force Base in Albuquerque, NM, a few weeks after 9 – 11. Col. John Brinkerhoff of FEMA, in talking about FEMA’s response to new terror attacks, tells those present that, “In case of a single case of Smallpox in a major metropolitan area, we will need 400,000 well armed, well trained, organized and disciplined troops to control the American People because some of them won’t follow orders.” When asked if that would be the National Guard, he responds curtly, “No. They are too expensive. Besides, they will be away in Afghanistan, Iraq or some other place. No, we need a cheap source of well armed, well trained, organized troops!” This video should be available to every American.

The “War on Terror” is PC for control of all who dissent from one world government. The Bolsheviks that killed the Czar and formed the Soviet Union were Communists agents that happened to be Jewish. Their agents installed Stalin who killed 50,000,000 white Russians after making anti-Semitism (questioning the ruling party) a crime!

The Vietnam War killed more whites than blacks yet we are told that belonging to a mostly white group like the Aryan Nations, a motorcycle club like the Hells Angels is somehow a bad thing.

What if we told American blacks that they were forbidden to join the NAACP or told a Jew they were not allowed to join the ADL or AIPAC? Or that sending money to Israel was a crime?

Mention the Protocols and the screaming begins, “Those are FORGERIES! OK. What is a Forgery? It is an exact copy of the original! Why are we not supposed to read them? Does it really matter who wrote them? They are 150 years old. Whoever wrote them, is dead, aren’t they? What matters is that they are a detailed plan for one world government with the anti-Christ seated on the throne of the rebuilt Temple. Is that the real reason the Palestinians are being forced out of their homes and walled off from their crops and income?

We should study the Protocols and ask, who is using them, without being accused or imprisoned for the crime of doubting the “official” story. From the Roman Empire on, there has been country after country raised up to replace the Roman Legionnaires with the same minions running the money changing scam in the temples. Today we know it by the Federal Reserve.
